

How to get the location of the stolen laptop?

One's personal laptop consists of a number of secrets which in case get revealed can cause a big problem to the owner of the laptop. Well with the increasing technology it has become easier to track the location of the laptop which is stolen or misplaced by you. It becomes easier if you have already installed the anti detecting software on your laptop. But not have to worry if your laptop is not having with such software. Some of the very common steps to be taken can let you meet your laptop soon. Some of the websites like outlook, facebook, Dropbox or Gmail in case if have an account on any of these.

Outlook

All you have to do is have another device in which you can, login into your outlook or Hotmail or live account. After login in click on the very right side of your profile. By clicking on the profile picture you will have with a drop-down list. Now you have to click on the “view account >devices. Then it will access you to the all the devices connected.

Go to the option Find My Device and you will have the exact location of your laptop.

Track using your Gmail account

Your Gmail has a very quick access to track all the IP address of all the emails using any application or software. Go to the Gmailbox, look for the option “Details” and click on it. Then go to “Last account Activity” which can be seen in the bottom right corner. It will provide you with the last ten popup activities which have been done by the user now regarding which IP address is used.

Drop box

First of all, you have to login into your Dropboxaccount. You can use any other such device which has a quick access to the drop box.

Go to settings>security tab

By following such procedure you can easily have a list of the last ten devices which are connected by the drop boxaccount in the past. This method will give with an easy access to reach the location where your laptop being used by any culprit.

Face book

You can also locate your lost laptop using your Facebook account. You can easily have your session list of Facebook.

Go to settings>security>”where you are logged in “.

Some of the deviceshave a direct option so you click on the option. Then you will be able to look for the devices which have the last access to your face book account. You can even have with the IP address by just having the cursor over the name of the city which is located by your account. In this way, you can easily localiserun portable. For more details visit: <https://geolocalisation-telephone.fr/>